miami is back, icon is back

Dear Friends,

From early on in my life, art has been one of my passions. As soon as I was able, I started buying and collecting pieces that spoke to me. During my first years as a collector, I focused mainly on Latin American art. I guess it was a way of preserving my Latin American memories – my early childhood in Buenos Aires, my later youth in Bogota, and finally my adulthood and the birth of The Related Group in Miami in 1979.

To keep my Latin heritage alive, I started out collecting the classics: Rivera, Kahlo, Matta, Lam, Torres García, Berri, Bravo, and Di Cavalcanti. Throughout the years, these pieces have brought me considerable pleasure and inspiration. And now the time has come for me to share those experiences with others, with the bulk of my present collection finding a new home at the Herzog & de Meuron museum being built on Biscayne Bay.

While others will be enjoying these quintessential pieces, I will be refocusing my attention on the wider international art scene. Recently, I have been collecting contemporary artists such as my friends Jose Bedia, Fernando Botero and Julio Larraz, painters like Kuitca, Stupia, Kcho, Los Carpinteros, photographers like the Vik Muniz, Chuck Close and Daniel Canogar and even great graffiti artists like VHILS. I want to absorb the energy of these creative young artists... perhaps to bring notice to them, perhaps to stay young myself. These artists excite my mind and keep my curiosity alive.

In Iconbay I am extremely happy to present to you an iconic building designed by my friend and longtime architect, Bernardo Fort-Brescia of Arquitectonica. His design of Iconbay’s amazing façade, will surely become a beacon of modernity in the Miami skyline. The project includes a fantastic bayfront park that will be filled with art. Modern sculptures will dot the landscape and grace Miami’s public spaces. It is the beauty and power of art that will drive the lifestyle at Iconbay, filling it with meaning for all who will visit or call this special place home.

I invite you to enjoy this building. Make iconbay your home in Miami. Treasure its art collection as your own. And revel in its breathtaking views of our beloved Biscayne Bay, which is nothing short of a natural and timeless work of art.

take a leisurely stroll through the unique sculpture park

One of the centerpieces of the iconbay design is its winding gardens and walkways directly alongside Biscayne Bay. Highlighted by the dramatic colors and bold shapes of outdoor sculpture by local and international artists, this open esplanade blends seamlessly with the natural wonders of the South Florida landscape. A short distance offshore, punctuating the view, a fluid column of water is proposed to rise from the bay in an elegant show of rushing waters, a feast for all the senses.
a park filled with art
featured artists

José Bedia Valdes
Born in Havana, Cuba, and trained in a traditional academic style, Bedia’s unique vision combines elements of the indigenous cultures of Africa and America. His paintings are known for blurring the boundary between fantasy and reality, and reflect his experience and fascination with Afrocuban religion, Palo Monte ‘earth-based’ philosophy, and Native American culture. His works have received recognition throughout the world, from São Paulo to Venice to The Museum of Modern Art in New York, among others. He currently lives in Miami.

Carolina Sardi
Fueled by a desire to convey maximum information in minimal yet essential forms, Sardi’s sculptures have an organic sensibility despite her preference of steel as a medium. Her work routinely references positive and negative space, geometry, natural shapes, and a balance between opposites. Originally from Argentina, Sardi has seen her work featured in Los Angeles, Shanghai, New York, London, Paris, Milan, and, of course, Miami – her home since 1995.

Eugenio & Lautaro Cuttica
Born in Buenos Aires, these contemporary father and son artists has exhibited in galleries, museums and cultural centers, and international art fairs for over 30 years. Eugenio’s work is based on a strong imprint of synchronicity and connection with what he calls the infinite frequency dimension of no time. His works appeal to beauty, not from the intellect but as something that just happens, generated from the idea of the artist as a vehicle of a foreign energy that flows thru him.

Gary Nader & Daniel Maman
Known for their galleries in Miami and Buenos Aires, respectively, Nader and Maman are rare experts in the identification and acquisition of what will be the newest, most in-demand modern and contemporary artists and works with strong Latin American and Caribbean influences. They have each been responsible for assembling some of the world’s most prolific private and museum collections, and are uniquely qualified to certify, catalog, and preserve works like those that will be featured at Iconbay.
On the Downtown shores of Biscayne Bay, where the Miami Design District meets the water, iconbay brings artistry to life. This monument to inspired living is a landmark reflection of the dynamic cultural mix that surrounds this one-of-a-kind property. Galleries, studios, and exhibits of Miami’s most avant-garde artists fill the nearby Wynwood Arts District, a place where modern and pop art fusion can be seen not only on building facades but also in the very heart and soul of this fascinating neighborhood. Creative international cuisine, gourmet food trucks that take fine dining on the road with hip accessibility, chic lounges off the beaten path with a loyal local following, musicians that mix cultures and formats... Wynwood is where Miami’s future ideas are now taking shape. And right alongside, in Midtown and the thriving Miami Design District, the top names in design like Armani Casa, Baltus, and Ligne Roset rub elbows with Christian Louboutin and Duncan Quinn, and Miami’s leading chefs, Michelle Bernstein and Michael Schwartz, are making a statement for creative locally-inspired cuisine. iconbay takes the best of these areas and goes one step further, by being right on Biscayne Bay... adding an element of natural artistry that is simply unmatched anywhere else in the world.

It’s not only the creativity of iconbay’s immediate neighborhood that makes it special – it’s the whole of Miami. Amazing expressions of world class theatre, ballet, opera, music, and more, take the stage at The Arsht Center for the Performing Arts, only a few blocks to the south. To the east, just beyond iconbay’s windows, is the dazzling skyline of Miami Beach, its colorful Art Deco influences, and its all-new Frank Gehry-designed New World Symphony. As Downtown Brickell continues to take shape as the urban core of the future, iconbay is perfectly positioned to experience the sophisticated and exciting lifestyle of this premier destination.

Along with iconbay, there are a number of other developments coming to the Downtown Biscayne Bay waterfront. On the horizon is the new Museum Park, the new permanent home of the Miami Art Museum, designed by Herzog & de Meuron, and a bayside sculpture garden that reflects the creative spirit of Miami’s Downtown. In the planning stages is the proposed Resorts World Miami, a $3 billion, 10 million square foot casino, convention center, hotel, and more, with an elevated beach and a 3 mile bayfront promenade. In a short time, the Brickell area will welcome Brickell CitiCentre, 4.6 million square feet of top-end retail, office, residential, and hotel space that is expected to be the country’s largest urban mixed-use LEED development project. iconbay will be just moments from Miami’s future, while providing a calm and restful sanctuary for ideas to flourish.
